how is ocy in trouble. i read the article and ecocy was not implicated at all. i don't even see how they could be as long as the adoptive home study proves that family services or catholic charities whoever did the home study was thorough and furthermore pa or at least erie pa doesn't have post adoption services. the article actually said that the first signs of abuse were in jan 2001 and that was either immediatey before or after the child was adopted in jan 2001. i think what could happen is that post adoption services could be implemented as a result. any way you know admin @ ecocy always paases the buck an even if they are not responsible i bet someone is preparing a lie just in case or have someone they could blame it on

One of our kids was beaten to death. If you get a chance plug into Erie
